July Program
Zoom Meeting
7PM Thursday July 7th

We are providing 3 Raw images that you can download at the following Dropbox link: SCC RAW Files for 07 July 2022 Program
The Files are also attached to the Gammagram email.

We are asking that you take one or more of the images and edit them in whatever way you see fit. That can be anything from basic cropping, exposure and color adjustments to radical creative treatments ("altered reality") and anything in between. We picked the images on the basis of obviously needing work but having content within them that can be brought out and improved via judicious and creative editing, making it likely that different people will take a different approach.

This is not a competition. It is intended to highlight a variety of perspectives and techniques from which everybody can take away some new ideas. In the meeting, we will display the images and ask each contributor to talk briefly about what they did and how they did it, and maybe what their inspiration was for that particular treatment. Others can ask questions or add suggestions. And we all learn something.

You are all pretty familiar with photo competition judges recommending cropping this way and that way, wanting more contrast or less contrast, and having different composition recommendations. Here we will actually see a variety of results for a given original photo, all valid but different, and we might get some insight into our own subconscious preferences.

And since this is not a competition, extreme refinement of the images is not needed to squeeze out that 12 or 13. Personally, I expect to spend no more than 30 minutes on any one image, pretty much going by instinct.

You should submit your results directly to me via email, in the traditional format of 100 pixels per inch, max pixels 1920 horizontal by 1200 vertical, sRGB color space. The deadline as usual is 2 days before the meeting: 5 July 2022 at 8 PM.

If you are inclined participate, please drop me a line so I have some idea how many images are heading this way.

Any and all suggestions will be considered.

Thanks!
